

The BOOKER T. WASHINGTON Papers

I will turn it over to you for editing. This, it seems to me, will very much simplify and lighten your work. This is the way I got the information concerning Groves.²

Now replying to yours of May 30th I will say that the publishers are on their heads to get the manuscript by at least September 1st.

As soon as I reach New York I think I can help in your coming to an understanding with Mr. Moore regarding your work on the Colored American Magazine as well as other matters. Yours very truly,

Booker T. Washington

TLS Con. 50 (new series) BTW Papers DLC.

¹ See An Article in Outlook, Feb. 7, 1903, above, 7:40-54.

² Junius G. Groves. See An Article in Outlook, May 14, 1904, above, 7:499-505.

To Emmett Jay Scott

South Weymouth, Mass. July 28, 1904

Dear Mr. Scott: I note what you say about Mr. Adams.¹ I am receiving on an average about four letters a day from him. They reach me here, in New York and everywhere I go. Sometimes they are by special delivery and sometimes common letters. They all say about the same thing. Several of them I have not taken the pains as yet to open.

If I were you, I would hold on to the Voice of the Negro for the present in spite of Barber's foolish letter.² Just as soon as I get opportunity for a conference with Mr. Hertel I shall ask him to dismiss Barber from the magazine. I am quite sure Hertel will do practically anything I ask of him. When I see Hertel I should like to show him a copy of this letter. Yours truly,

Booker T. Washington

TLS Con. 24 BTW Papers DLC.

¹ Cyrus Field Adams was in charge of transportation arrangements for the NNBL meeting to be held the following month. He also hoped to have charge of the Republican western headquarters in Chicago for campaigning among black voters, but BTW explained to him that in 1904 there would probably be no Chicago