hope that you can come home before Xmas. I hear that Mr. Hamilton will be here soon. I do not feel very elated over his coming.

Mrs Logan's mother is here. She has lost her son and seems to feel it deeply.

I hope that you keep up your strength.

I do not write to Chicago often. I have written only once since you left? I had a letter last week. I'll show it to you when you come if you wish to see it.

I am tired to night. Miss Moore will be here next Friday. I have lots of funny things to tell you of her but I shall hold them until you get here. Try not to feel ill toward [her] — perhaps she will get over her ——— for you — any way let us hope that she will.

They tease me a great deal about her but I have no fear. Need I have any?

Lots of love to you.

Your Maggie

In a general way, I think I have outlined all the duties. We have few cast iron rules and you would find yourself at liberty to make many
